 welcome you to the South Bay Harbor Trail

The South Bay Harbor Trail is a 3.5 mile-long pedestrian-friendly urban bike trail that will connect Lower Roxbury, the South End, Chinatown, Fort Point Channel, and South Boston to Boston Harbor at Fan Pier. It will also connect these neighborhoods and Boston Harbor to the Emerald Necklace.

For centuries Boston Harbor has been at the heart of our great waterfront city. Today, with miles of HarborWalk, the Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy Greenway, the 34 islands of the Boston Harbor Islands National Park, five public swimming beaches and some of the cleanest water in urban America, Boston's Harbor and waterfront are a great place to ride a bike, to take a walk, to swim, to fish, to sail, and to enjoy.

The South Bay Harbor Trail connects Bostonians from across the City with America's past and our City's future on Boston Harbor.

Michael J. Tyrrell is the Founder of the South Bay Harbor Trail Coalition. Michael developed the urban design concept of creating a pedestrian-friendly trail to connect Boston's neighborhoods to each other and to Boston Harbor. Working with Save the Harbor/Save the Bay, the Coalition has assembled a group of neighborhood residents, business owners, community organizations and elected officials who share a common vision for the South Bay Harbor Trail.
